Dear Zelda and company,

I really like your comics. But, I have a better idea: Zelda toy! Ganon could come with a wand, and the triforce of power (red). Link would come with a sword, shield and the triforce of courage (yellow). Zelda would come with a bow and arrows, and the triforce of wisdom (green). The malifin would come with armor and a spear.

Oh, and the triforces would need something to hold them — something as big as this picture. In my picture, the throne holds the triforces.

P.S. If you can't do this, please send me the address of someone who can.

P.P.S. If you can, please send me Link and a Malifin.

P.P.P.S. Expect more letters and pictures!

Now post! Sorry to say, we're not the folks to turn your pictures into toys, though. Why not write to a toy company?

We would be pleased, however, to expect more letters and pictures from you... or anyone else who wants to let us know what's on his or her mind!

Dear Nintendo people,

I have thought of a new Nintendo game. It's called, "The Legend of Zelda II." It will be for two players on the screen. Zelda and Link will fight side by side! Link's weapon is a sword, and Zelda's weapon is the magic of the triforces. Together they will fight malifins and all of Ganon's minions!

Well, that's all for now.

Link and Zelda, fighting side by side, together at last! Sounds great!

(Ever see anyone about the next step beyond your new game? Could it possibly be... "The Legend of Zelda 4"??)

Dear Sir or Madam,

I like the SUPER MARIO BROS. and THE LEGEND OF ZELDA. I think Link is incredible and funny.

I'm glad these books came out.

You might want to try picking up some of our other comic book titles, such as ADVENTURES OF THE SUPER MARIO BROS., which includes lots more Mario Bros. mayhem, plus special Captain N: The Game Master stories, also, the NINTENDO COMICS SYSTEM, featuring a variety of different Nintendo characters, including characters straight from Game Boy! But you'll be just as glad (or gladder) you did!
